Mr. Baldwin:

On January 18, 1982, we met to discuss the above-captioned grievance at the fourth step of our contractual grievance procedure as set forth in Article XV, Section 2 of the National Agreement.

The matters presented by you as well as the applicable contractual provisions have been reviewed and given careful consideration regarding the requirement to train employees on the same tour that they will be assigned after completion of the training.

Training of an MPLSM operator work force is held on the same tour that employees will be assigned after completion of the training only as it applies to a new MPLSM installation or expansion of an MPLSM installation as set forth in Handbook P-24, Section 160.

It is mutually agreed that the instant matter does not coincide with the aforementioned application since the subject employees are being trained for incoming machine distribution not related to a new MPLSM installation nor expansion of an MPLSM installation.

Please sign and return the attached copy of this decision as our acknowledgement of agreement to resolve this grievance.

Sincerely,

Every Whistle

which was controlled by several dozen men who had been in the area for many years. They supplied us with everything from the area to the town of Krasnodar. We were able to buy some grain from local farmers. The grain was very poor quality and we had to pay a lot of money for it. We also bought some flour and sugar from a local bakery. The bread was very good and we enjoyed it.

...and the reason I didn't add it to those villages at all was that I thought it would be better to do some alteration in those villages so that they could be converted to those which you speak of or had the advantage of those which you mentioned earlier than a few which don't have the necessary means to do so without
