Dear Mr. Johnson:

On November 28, 1984, we met to discuss the above-captioned grievance at the fourth step of our contractual grievance procedure.

The issue in this grievance is whether management violated the National Agreement by utilizing a carrier craft employee as a 204(b) for a part of a day.

After further review of this matter, we agreed that there was no national interpretive issue fairly presented in this case.

The parties at this level agree that management may use a craft employee in a 204(b) assignment for less than a full day. Under Article 41, management must provide a copy of Form 1723 showing the approximate time(s) and date(s) of the detail. Any amendment to the form shall also be provided to the union.

Accordingly, we agreed to remand this case to Step 3 for further consideration by the parties. Whether or not the employee was needed as an acting supervisor at the time in dispute is a noninterpretive issue.

Please sign and return the enclosed copy of this decision as acknowledgment of our agreement to remand this grievance.

Time limits were extended by mutual consent.

Sincerely,

Leslie Bayliss
Labor Relations Department

Dear Mr. Overby:

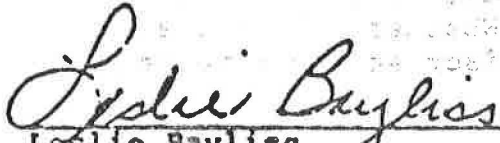

On June 23, 1983, we met to discuss the above-captioned case at the fourth step of the contractual grievance procedure set forth in the National Agreement.

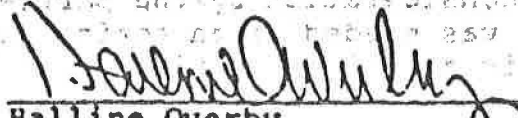

The question raised in this grievance is whether management can unilaterally terminate a 204B assignment.

After further review of this matter, we mutually agreed to close this case, because it is management's prerogative to select employees who will be assigned as 204B supervisors.

Please sign and return the enclosed copy of this letter as your acknowledgment of agreement to close this case.

Sincerely,

 Leslie Bayliss
 Labor Relations Department
